DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

2. I. Claims 1-5, 35-36;

a. Here, the Examiner notes that Group I includes patentably distinct subject matter, namely the concept of identifying and providing further excitation at the resonant frequency which is used to either identify a marker resonant frequency (i.e. receiver tunable to resonator frequency), this particular limitation is distinct from the various embodiments claimed in Group II. Furthermore, prior art that would be applicable to reject subsequent group would not be applicable to reject that above stated patentably distinct limitation.

3. II. Claims 6-27, 32-34, and 37-38;

b. Here, the Examiner notes that Group II utilizes a ring time control processor or alternatively a window filter to identify a marker resonant frequency. As stated in the specification, at pages 16-17, the receiver that includes the ring time control processor, the receiver that window filters, the receiver that interpolates, and the receiver the identifies a resonator due to a broadband excitation are each alternative examples of several disclosed embodiments for identifying a resonant frequency. Prior art that is applicable to this group would not apply to group I because Group II does not recite the step of tuning a receiver to a resonator frequency and applying further excitations at that frequency. Thus prior art that is exclusively applicable to Group II includes: Paradiso et al. (USPN 6,404,340), and/or Mate et al. (Pub. No.: 2002/0193685) and/or Dimmer (Pub. No. 2003/0122653), in view of Eckstein et al. (Pub. No.: 2001/0040507), Bladen et al. (Pub. No.: 2003/016037), or Flaxl (USPN 5,491,715). Furthermore, Group II may be exclusively subject to a Double patenting rejection in view Application 10/749478.

4. The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record. Here, the Examiner stands, in view of the 10/27/2009 Arguments overcoming the Paradiso reference (See pg 10-11 of 10/27/2009 arguments). Here, applicant exclusively argues that "the tunable excitation in accordance with analysis made by the receiver 208" overcomes the Paradiso reference. Thus, a search for Groups I and II would impose a burden on the examiner to because although the groups are classifiable together they have a separate status in the art.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
